RICH IN RELATIONSHIPS

Every person at the West Valley Church of Christ is important! We are rich in relationships because people are important to us – first, last, and always! This understanding equips the church to be the place where the confused find clarity of truth, the disillusioned find direction in life, and the broken-hearted find encouragement. Growing together, we worship, we laugh, we learn, and serve others to the glory of God. Every snapshot of the church in the New Testament is a group picture. Our linkage to each other means that we are bound to do life together because each member belongs to one another (Romans 12:4-5). Some believers built a new church building. Up on the roof a little nail, holding down a shingle on the roof started thinking, “I am not that important, they don’t need me. I am just one little nail holding on a shingle.” The nail began to work itself out of the roof and it fell to the ground. In time the shingle worked loose and water started to slowly leak into the beautiful building. The small leak grew worse and in time water stained the pews, walls, and flooded the carpet. Why? All because a little nail felt like its job was not important. As Christians we are important to God and each other. Let’s not fail to do our part in holding down our piece of shingle to the Glory of God.
